"Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have come to believe." (John 20:29)

'Generations who walk in faith without "seeing" are "begotten of God" and more blessed than those who have seen and believed. This faith enables them to live as a community of "one heart and one mind," the classical description of friendship, which is cemented by concern for the poor and needy.

The Resurrection proclamation is not simply the victory over death or the promise of eternal life, but a summons to live as a community led by the Spirit, practicing forgiveness and resistance to evil, which takes shape in bonds of friendship that reach across the great economic divide between wealth and poverty.'
